took Joseph and Napoleon with him.

They corosed the sea to Loghorn and journeyed to Florence, where Carlo received from the Grand Duke, Leopold, a letter to his sister, Marie Antoinette, the Queen of France. She made Carlo a welcome gue-t at Versailles, when Napoleon, then ten years old, first looked upon that gorgeous palace of which he was, afterwards the master. Carlo left Joseph in a school at Autun, and through the influence of Governor Marbouf he was allowed to place Napoleon in the Military Academy at Brienne, where the afterwards emineat Pitchegrue was one of his instructors.

Six years later a heavy weight of mistortune fell upon Lettita. Carlo was attacked by the disease which terminated the life of his, most illustrious son at St. Helena thirty-six years afterward. He went alone to Montpelier, in France for advice and remedies, and there he died in 1786, under the hospitable roof of a girl-hood companion of Lettita, the mother of the celebrated Marshal Junot.

When Carlo died, Lettita was not thirty-five years of age, and had been the mother of thirteen children. Five sons and three daughters were yet living—a race of monarchs who occupied thrones and lost them during one of the most, powerful historical dramas, enacted in the space of ten years, the world has ever known. She swere yet dark, and the beauty of her yourh yet bloomed on her cheeks and sparkled in her eyes. Her sons were Guiseppe, or Joseph, who was made King of Naples in 1806, and of Spein in 1805. Napoleon, who made himself Emperor of the French and disposer of thrones in 1805. Luciana, or Lucian, who alone refused a crown, but accepted a principality, with its title, from the Pope in 1808; Luigi, or Louis, made King of Holland in 1806.

and interest in three particles of the support and education. To these she devoted all her energies with marvelous success. Strength, we have observed, was the prominent feature in her character, and this was displayed in the hour of need. Napoleon once said, "She had the head of a man on the shoulders of a wong a Leves privations fatient had no Edward man. This is a fact that makes all the usual epithets, such as "territole," "awful," etc., pitiably below the mark. Fortunately, eighty per cent of the victims were but slightly wounded, and will survice allowed to the control of the co ap an hopes of waters, and a Sugar unother escort.

But there was another friend, who did not have Dr. Rauch to help him out of the scrape, and, consequently, accepted a young lady's suggestion, and:

At first they did not relish fighting under these unwouted conditions, and yielding before their advancing enemal to originally occupied. But soon gets the thands of a foe not half as strong as themselves, they took the offensive with the utmost vehemence, and displayed the data for which they have been so long and so justily famous. Brigham Young's Wealth.

Brigham Young's Wealth.

The prodigious wealth of the Salt Lake autocrat, Brigham Young, has been flaunted in the face of the world for ten years, as an offset to his multifarious crimes against civilizatioa and humanity. He has been held up to view as one of the ablest executive minds in the nation; a man capable of vast achievments; a ruler who moved the one hundred and fifty thousand people of his dominions like automatoms, and made all things within the radius of his power move to his bidding. We have been told that he was the second largest depositor in the Bank of England, had millions in London, real estate, and costly buildings without number; held the balance of money power in New York and other cities, the lowest figure of his enormous gains being placed at seventy millions.

The falsehood of the prophet's wealth millions.

The falsehood of the prophet's wealth was sent abroad in a quiet way, by and through the horde of proselyting agents scattered throughout the United States and Europe for this purpose.

scattered throughout the United States and Europe for this purpose.

When it was decided by the church to establish a gigantic co-operative institution, with branches extending through the capital city, and to every city of the empire, agents were sent to Chicago, New York, Boston and Philadelphia, to purchase stocks for the multitude of stores proposed to be opened. The seventy-millions preceded them, and dealers vied with each other as to who should sell the goods on credit to the chief of Zion's co-operative establishment. Merchandise of every description flowed into the territory in an endless stream, and the thousand stores were stocked. "Holiness to the Lord "furnished the trademark by which all Mormons were ordered to buy. Excommunication from the church, which is virtually outlawry, was visited upon all who dared to violate the ediet by trading with a Gentile. The institution has thus far made no dividends, and the Eastern merchants who sold it goods were sold in return. When they sought the whereabout of the glittering seventy millions, no part of it could be found.

Twenty-wo years ago Brigham Young, with a few hundred monedwes followers.

Twenty-two years ago Brigham Young, They continued poor up to the arrival of ohnston's army, sent there by Floyd and Buchanan. This expedition put money $160,000 per annum, and we doubt if they are that much.

His foreign deposits cannot be large, possibly a million or two, but he has a tight grasp on all estates goods, and effects of his subjects, which nay amount to thirty or forty millions—certainly not more. Salt Lake City to-day, though four times as large, is not so expensively built as Denver. The buildings are all adobe, tand most of them of the cheaper kind. A few on Temple street, the main thoroughfur, present an imposing appearance, but they are built of concrete, and staccoed off into square blocks so represent cut.

"At noon to-day the work of desolation began on a grand scale around the city. Vast columns of smoke are reported by the latest Dieppe dispatches as rising at that time to the north and east of the capital. Many houses in St. Denis were on fire. The bridge at St. Cloud was blown up yesterday evening. The fine bridge at Neuilly—one of the handsomest in Europe—is mined ready to blow up. The National guard went on duty to-day in the fortresses. Joseph, ever kind and good, helped his mother with all his might as he grew toward manhood; while Napoleon, a rather dull student in outward expression, was preparing, in the military school at Paris, for that wonderful career which enabled him, by imperial decree, to make sovereigns of his brothers and sisters, and to confer upon his mother, at the age of fity years, the lofty title of Madame Mere, equivalent to that of Empress Mother, and an income of $200,000 a year.

slightly wounded, and will survive, al though more or less incapacitated for work. The French losses are quite as large, and include even a greater number of dead. Putting the easualties on both sides to gether, the total we obtain is, I am afraid, rather in excess of 30,000. Some regiments have fared badly. The Twelftch (nantry lost 61 officers of the 69 it bad, and 1,500 rank and file of the 8,000 forming its complement. The Forty-seventh, almsst equally unfortunate, had 47 officers and 1,500 men removed from the ranks; the Sixty-fourth, 41 officers and 1,000 men; the Seventy-second, about 20 officers, thirteen of whom are dead, and 1,000 men. Gloomiest of all seems to have been the doom of the Twenty-fourth, which is said to have lost 2,000 men and nearly all its officers. At Marsha-Tour, the French for the first time in the entire course of this momentous war, engaged the Germons in a fair stand-up fixtht. Until this action the French had of all the complete their ground, had either stationed themselves high on hills or dug themselves into rifle pits, or, as usual, combining both advantages, lin-d the upper part of mountaineous slopes with successive rows or ditches. Mayor Flanders, as every one knows who has business at his office, is infinenced in matters generally by his views of public interest, and in legal affairs holds himself to be guided strictly by the law.

A gentleman called lately at the Mayors effice, and with an air of innocent simplicity that would have set charmingly on Noah Claypole, asked for a certificate of citizenship upon which to procure a passport to France. The Mayor referred him to Fred. A. Johnson. so well known to the visitors at the office as a model of clerical activity and politeness.
